Thanks so much for your inquiry, and apologies for our delay in getting back to you. We are of course happy to grant this request. Do you know roughly how many people the article will reach? This is for internal use and impact reports only.

Please don't hesitate to let me know if you have questions, and feel free to send all future inquiries directly to me.

Hello,

I'm writing to find out more information regarding authors self-archiving pieces that they've published in Education Next. Does the journal have a policy that allows authors to make their contributions freely available through their institutional repository?

The goal of our institutional repository (<http://works.swarthmore.edu/>) is to promote our faculty's scholarship through open access for research and educational purposes. Thus, if possible, we would love to make the following work written by Professor John Caskey and Professor Mark Kuperberg available through our repository:

John P. Caskey and Mark Kuperberg. (2014). "The Philadelphia School District's Ongoing Financial Crisis". Education Next. Volume 14, Issue 4. 20-27.

This request is for non-exclusive, non-commercial, one-time, single-use permission for this purpose ("educational and research") only. Copyright notice, citation of original publication data, DOI, and a link back to your site (if desired) will be used.

Please let me know if you need additional information; I await your response.

Many thanks,
Maria Aghazarian

Many thanks, Melissa! Regarding reach, I'm not sure, but if you like, I can report back after a certain amount of time? The number of downloads will publicly display on the page where it is posted, which will be here: <https://works.swarthmore.edu/fac-economics/354/>

Many thanks,

Maria
